

WE NOMINATE

Ansley Johnson Coale, hard-working, 42-year old Director of Princeton University's Office of Population Research, who this past Sunday here at the Princeton Inn helped lay the groundwork for the World Population Emergency Campaign, a privately-sustained venture dedicated to calling to this country's attention "the world population explosion and its economic and political consequences." It was the thesis of Coale and his associates at the one-day symposium that an ever-growing population constitutes "the basic problem of the world today, and unless we can solve it, no other major problem of our world society can be solved at all."

For Coale, successor this past month to Frank W. Notestein as director of Princeton's pioneering program in the broad reaches of demography, the hard facts he was dispensing were hardly new. However, they jarred many of his listeners with the impact of a sledgehammer on the shinbone. For instance, a continuation of India's high birth-rates might raise India's population to 1.5 billion persons in the next 50-60 years. Such a projected increase would mean in the following century a population density for all of India comparable to the present density of the Metropolitan Area of New York City.

Supporting Coale's documented projection that even eventual escape from grinding poverty in the underdeveloped areas of Asia, Africa and South America will be undermined by the continuing, unchecked population explosion are recent estimates of the United Nations. The world's population climbed from one to two billion between 1830 and 1930. It will hit the three-billion mark in the 1960's and, by the end of the 20th century, there may well be 6-7 billion people living on this planet, with the staggering increases occurring in countries now struggling with an annual per capita income of less than $200.

The Baltimore-born Coale, whose professional interests have ranged from demography and statistics to military economic problems and electronics, attracted wide attention some six years ago—in 1954, when he was named as Associate Professor in the University as well as Assistant Director of the Office of Population Research. His studies of the errors in this country's Census of 1950, published in scholarly journals, developed the since-substantiated facts that there was an overall undercount of some 3.5 per cent in the nation's population and an undercount of 13 per cent in the non-white population.

A World War II naval specialist in ship-borne radar, whose initial post-war publication was "The Problem of Reducing Vulnerability to Atomic Bombs", Coale was graduated from Princeton with high honors in 1939 and returned to the campus to complete his doctoral training in 1947. Over the years Coale, a bicyclist and tennis addict, has studied in the Far East and Europe, has carried forward research projects here at The Institute for Advanced Study and has been a consultant to the Weapons Systems Evaluation Group of the Office of the Secretary of Defense.

For constantly seeking to supplement, and correct, thoroughly inadequate data on world population problems and trends; for long sensing the importance of meeting the challenges of untrammelled growth; for relating population worries to the future of this country and of all humanity; he is Town Topics' nominee for

COUNTDOWN

Census Will Begin, Princeton householders will open their mail next week to find a communication from the United States Department of Commerce. It will be the "Advance Census Report Form for the 1960 Census of Population and Housing", a leaflet designed to speed up the census and make things easier when the census-taker finally rings the doorbell.

The folded sheet of paper contains the questions that every householder will be required to answer. The report form should be filled out before the "enumerator" comes around so that the actual census will take less time.

Every householder in the United States must fill out this form. In addition, every fourth householder will answer the questions on a longer form, but that one will be brought by the census-taker when he comes to call.

The form asks for the names of all persons living in a house as of April 1, 1960—the day the census begins. The sex, race, birth date and marital status of every member of the family is to be noted, and full information about any visitors or lodgers.

Then, the Bureau of the Census asks whether you have a kitchen or cooking equipment and whether you share it with another family; do you have a flush toilet; is there a bathtub or shower in your house?; are you a renter or owner and if you are an owner, how much do you think your property is worth and if you are a renter, how much rent do you pay?

All these questions, of course, are completely confidential and cannot, by law, be used for taxing or investigating any householder.

"Crew Leader" Named, Census-taking in Princeton Borough and most of the Township is under the direction of Harmon Hubble, 175 Nassau Street. (Small northwestern and southwestern sections of the Township are under Hopewell and Hamilton Township crew leaders.)

Mr. Hubble, as "crew leader," is taking a full-time course of study in Trenton to prepare for the job of teaching and guiding the 17 men and women who will work under him, canvassing Princeton house by house, apartment by apartment and in some sections, farm by farm.

Mr. Hubble could use more help. At present, there are not enough enumerators to cover all of the area, and the Census Bureau in Trenton is still taking applications. Anyone who is interested and would like to collect the $11-$13 daily pay, may apply to Mr. Hubble or to Room 228 in the Postoffice Building, Trenton. Enumerators must be high-school graduates who live in the community where they will work. This week, crew leaders have been making a preliminary survey to determine just how many enumerators really are needed, and so to familiarize themselves with the area they'll have to cover.

Final Figures Are Important. The final census total will be tremendously significant; it will not only determine how many representatives a state can send to the House of Representatives, it will also govern such local matters as the amount of state or Federal aid a community will receive for schools, highway construction, and so on.

After the 1950 census, there was considerable discussion about the validity of results in Princeton Borough. The Trenton census gave Princeton a total population of 17,255, of which 11,865 were residents of the Borough. It was assumed that students at the University, Choir College and Seminary had been assigned to the population of their home towns, even though they had been counted here. But Trenton census officials announced that the student population had been included in the Borough figure, which seemed to indicate that the Borough population had decreased by 82 in the decade between 1940 and 1960. This obviously was ridiculous.

To compound the confusion, Federal officials in Philadelphia said that in both 1940 and 1950, students had been counted as part of the population, and this statement automatically wiped out 40 percent of what had always been considered the town's permanent, year 'round population. The final, revised 1950 figure was 12,230.

The 1960 form which will be mailed out next week, instructs householders not to list college students who are away at college or merely home on vacation. Presumably these students will be counted at college, as they were in 1950. To whose home town they will be allotted may be as new a question in 1960 as it was a decade ago.

ROUND-UP

March snowfalls (three) have brought the total inches for the winter to 24, about normal. A trouble was, from the average Princetonian's point of view, that over half of it was recorded this morning, however, the 13 inches (so far) are well under the 17.8 that had these parts during a three-day period in March, 1957.

Building booms: the mild weather that prevailed most of the winter enabled houses under construction to be finished so rapidly that Princeton Township school board members are rising at the rate of half a dozen new pupils a month in what is normally the "off season" for increased enrollments. Superintendent William Purcell reports that a new elementary school will be needed for the municipality by September, 1962, and hopes are that that agreement among all parties concerned can be reached so that it will be built on Community Gardens land, between Witherspoon Street and State Road 206, in nearby Lawrence Township, plans are afoot to erect a five-story apartment building at the corner of Lawrence Road and Darrach Lane, one that would (if the necessary zoning variances are granted) contain 96 separate dwelling units.

The seemingly ubiquitous sneak thief who has made a practice of stealing pocketbooks from locations near the front door moved into the Hunter Lane area this week, taking a purse containing $30 from the home of Mrs. Stanton Waterman, another thief with other motives in mind took two bottles of whiskey from the home of Mrs. Ruth Dile, 306 Ridge Road, on St. Patrick's Day—but police said it wasn't Irish.

Letters to the Editor continue since this week (pages 12 and 20), with topics ranging from steps for racial integration in the south and improved protection at school crossings here to more thoughts on capital punishment and water fluoridation. A "party girl" who takes on the problem of entertaining small fry on birthdays is in the news (page 17), as are the readers who are usually engaged in recording for the blind (page 18).

Ten Years Ago: TOWN TOPICS, March 23, 1960: After a mild winter, the forecast was for a cold, late spring, with temperatures remaining below normal until mid-April — a prediction the U. S. Weather Bureau has just duplicated for 1960. The League of Women Voters announced a public forum entitled "Politics Is Your Business" to be held at Miss Fine's School with Republican George R. Griffing and Democrat Dan D. Coyne as the speakers. Firestone Library, less than three years old, recorded its millionth visitor.

On the business scene, Barmann's was at 30 Nassau Street, the Town Shop was underneath the Princeton Bank and Trust Company at 12 Nassau Street and the town's was on Palmer Square — television sets had increased in size to 17-inch screens but continued on Page 4

FLUORIDATION? MAYBE

Township Delays Action. The fate of fluoridation for the Princeton community remained uncertain this week as the Township committee postponed a decision Monday night after some three hours of discussion. The resolution to request the Princeton Water Company to fluoridate the water supply was similar to that passed by the Borough Council three weeks ago after an hour-long public hearing.

After listening to 24 letters and a score of speakers, ranging from pro to con and including one "admittedly confused," the Township Committee took the resolution under advisement. It will be on the agenda for the next regular meeting, April 4, when the Committee can either pass it, defeat it or resort to some other resolution such as a referendum.

The need for a referendum was suggested by James W. Foley of 282 North Harrison Street, Committee Chairman Thomas Cook took up Mr. Foley's proposal, noting that the original stand of the Water Company three years ago was that it would fluoridate the water only if a majority of the voters supported it in a referendum. He said he understood the Company still took essentially the same position.

Opponents and proponents of fluoridation attending the session were obviously split over the need for a referendum, however. Some from each side declared it was the Committee's job to make such decisions, while others wanted to record full community feeling. An on-the-spot poll taken by Committeeman Cook showed the 40 people attending the hearing (divided from an earlier 60) to be divided, with the fluoridation and anti-fluoridationists voting both ways on the advisability of a referendum.

"Facts and Figures" at Odds. Aided by a two-week period of grace, those opposing fluoridation rallied after their defeat in the Borough and appeared at the Township meeting well armed with facts and figures. Supporters of the resolution were equally well supplied with facts and figures—quite different from those used by the opponents of the resolution. As several speakers stressed, it was a question of knowing which facts and figures to believe.

Included in the 24 letters on the topic were ones in support of the resolution from the Township Board of Health (which proposed the resolution); the medical and dental staff of Princeton Hospital; the Junior Chamber of Commerce; the Council of Community Services; the Dr. Paul's Littlebrook - Riverside and Valley Road - Johnson Park Parent-Teacher Associations. Seven citizens in favor of fluoridation and eight opposed rounded out the written communications before the Committee.

Poison or Vitamin? Comments on the two sides of the issue ranged from those of Wesley Walton of 36 Herontown Circle, who carefully listed possible harmful effects of fluorides in the water, to Dr. Herbert A. Pohl of 338 Franklin Avenue, who noted that it is "helpful to think in terms of fluorides as a vitamin." Mr. Walton said, "We can't afford to take the chance of adopting such a measure." Dr. Pohl called a vote against fluoridation "a vote for the continuance of disease and disfigurement in children."

In addition to debating the possible harmful effects, speakers considered the question of the beneficial effects which could be proved. Mr. Walton noted that "the claims for fluoride have not worked out in practice," while other opponents cited the number of cities which have given up fluoridation after trying it. Proponents continually used the U.S. Public Health Service's figure that it could benefit up to 60 percent of the children.

Another point often made by those opposing fluoridation was that it is a form of forced mass medication. Mrs. Steveland Anders of 601 Lake Drive said she felt it was against her constitutional rights. Her husband proposed that fluoridation should only be provided on a voluntary basis, such as that used in Clifton, N.J., where tablets are provided to be given to the children.

The other side of this argument, as brought out by those favoring fluoridation, is that state supreme courts have not recognized fluoridation as a violation of citizens' rights, and the U.S. Supreme Court has four times refused to consider such cases. Dr. Benjamin Sainberg, chairman of the special committee on fluoridation of the Council of Community Services, observed that it would not have the same effect because people would be unlikely to take the trouble to use them.

TEACHER CHANGES SET
In Princeton Borough, The departure of 12 teachers and appointment of six new ones were announced at Tuesday's meeting of the Princeton Borough Board of Education.

Three are retiring as of March
31. They are Miss Louise Osgood,
English teacher at Princeton
High School; Mrs. Sally Brook and Mrs. Ruth Griggs, teachers at Nassau Street School. Substitutes named to fill their positions until the end of the school year are Mrs. Frances Roberts, who will replace Miss Osgood; Miss Jean Friedman, replacing Mrs.
Brook, and Mrs. Jessie Goyette, replacing Mrs. Griggs.

Three others are retiring as of June 30. They are Miss Jean Wright, assistant principal at the

NEW SET DESIGNED
For "Pygmalion," Selly Jenny has designed a new "open stage" for the Community Players' production of "Pygmalion," the Bernard Shaw comedy which will open this Friday at 8:30 at the Playmill on Alexander Street. "Pygmalion" will be given again on Saturday and next Tuesday through Saturday, April 2. The stage has been split so that different areas serve as different rooms. There will be three sets altogether. Mrs. Jenny has also designed costumes for the play. Leo Brannick is responsible for the lighting.

VOODOO IN MCCARTER
Haitian Company Here. Haiti's two cultural strains, the French and the native, will be represented this Saturday in Jean Leon Destine's program of Haitian dances which will be given at 8:30 in McCarter Theatre. Tickets are still available for the Dana Attractions production. "Fiesta in Haiti," the general theme of the program, will include one of Destine's most compelling dance creations, "Witch Doctor" to the accompaniment of a hypnotic drum.

He calls upon the drum as the sacred instrument of the voodoo gods, to give him power to drive out an evil spirit which has possessed a native girl. A motion picture of "Witch Doctor" has won awards at the Venice and Edinburgh International Film festivals.

The engagement at McCarter will be Destine's third in three years before Princeton audiences. He appeared here first in April, 1957.

A PRINCETON "FIRST"
"Age of Anxiety" Coming. W.H. Auden's poem, "Age of Anxiety," written in 1944, has been transcribed for the theater and will be presented in its new form for the first time in Princeton Theatre Intime production which will open on April 28.

It will run through May 7 in Murray Theater. John Becker will direct.

Mr. Becker talked Mr. Auden into the idea of a dramatic version of the poem and has been concerned frequently with the author from the beginning. Mr. Auden will come to Princeton for the opening performance.

Dance and jazz are an integral part of the new Intime version. The play poem is set in a Third Avenue bar where a sailor, an intellectual, a middle-aged man and a demi-mondaine try to cope with their problems. Norman Symonds has composed a jazz score which will complement Mr. Auden's philosophies. Don Redlich will do the choreography, drawing on a background of extensive "dramatic dance" work with Hanya Holm.

"Age of Anxiety" has been seen before on the stage, but not in its present form. Jerome Robbins composed a jazz ballet to the poem using music written by Leonard Bernstein.

CALLING ALL CHILDREN
To "The Magic Flute." All children up to the age of 12 are invited to the presentation on Saturday, April 2, of "The Magic Flute," a play designed especially for them. The play is being presented by the Princeton Children's Theatre under the sponsorship of the Theatre Intime. There will be two performances, one at 10:30 a.m. and another at 2 p.m., at Murray Theatre on the University Campus.

Mrs. Constance Loux is director of "The Magic Flute" and the cast is made up of a group of talented young Princetonians who have just completed a two-month tour of local schools under the sponsorship of PTA groups. Included are John Andrews, who plays the boy with the flute; William Conger, the king; and Jayne Andrews, the princess.

Others in the cast are Virginia Corbett, who plays the witch; Frances Mack and Ingrid Buck, as leprechauns, and Meta Thompson, as a forest nymph. This will be the second show of the season to be presented in Princeton by the Children's Theatre. The first was "The Beggar Boy of Baghdad," staged at the Garden Theatre at Christmas-time. Tickets to "The Magic Flute" are now on sale at the University Store. All seats are $1, either for children or for adults accompanied by children.

humorist's appearance, C.K. Productions has scheduled two performances for the same evening, one at 7 and another at 9:20. Tickets are available at the University Store.

The Gateway Singers, who specialize in "folk singing for moderns," will spell Mr. Berman at both performances.

For his monologues, the young humorist often uses the telephone as a prop, so that the audience hears his side of a conversation in which he learns, in ever-mounting detail, exactly what he did while drunk at a party the night before. Or he portrays a young man trying to straighten out a misunderstanding with his girl, one of his most famous sketches concerns the apprehensions of a novice air traveler.

Mr. Berman appeared first on television on the Jack Paar show and has since been seen on Ed Sullivan and Steve Allen shows. His two record albums are "Inside Shelley Berman" and "Outside Shelley Berman."

APPRENTICES WANTED
 For Summer Theater. Young people who are interested in the theater are invited to apply to Mrs. Constance Loux, 19 Murray Place, for positions in The Gateway Playhouse company, Somers Point, New Jersey.

The Playhouse gives a ten-week season of summer stock. Apprentices will have an opportunity to appear in professional adult productions and to learn all phases of the theater craft. There is no fee, just living expenses. Those who are interested may call WA 4-8826 for an appointment.

Mrs. Loux' Children's Theater will be seen off-Broadway in "Boggar Boy of Baghdad" which will be given at The Downtown Theater for four consecutive Saturdays beginning April 8.

Included in the cast are Barbara and Claire Alden, William Conner, Michael Korman, Jayne Andrews, John Leiton and Lynda Almgren. The play was seen in Princeton earlier this season at The Garden Theater.

"COME BACK, AFRICA"
 Film to Be Shown. "Come Back, Africa," produced and directed by Lionel Rogosin, whose "On the Bowery" has received critical acclaim, will be shown three times on April 18 at the Garden Theater under the auspices of Film Art Productions of Princeton.

The film, which attacks the apartheid policies of the South African government, was made in South Africa without the knowledge of governmental authorities. It tells the story of a tribal Zulu and his reaction to the written and unwritten laws that govern his contact with the white world. Miriam Makeba sings in this film and it was through "Come Back, Africa," that she first became known in this country.

The program will also include a short film, "My Own Yard to Play In," a study of young children in the streets of New York City, which won first prize last year in Venice. Advance reserved-section tickets are on sale at the University store at $1.25 each. General admission will be $1.

THE PLAYHOUSE
 Seven Thieves (March 27-30) is a taut, well-played melodrama about a complicated casino robbery in Monte Carlo. The stars are Edward G. Robinson, Rod Steiger, Joan Collins, Eli Wallach and Alexander Scourby. Adapted from "Lions at the Kill," a novel by Max Catto, the film was written and produced by Sidney Boesh and directed by Henry Hathaway.

Steiger, an ex-con who was recently released from jail, arrives on the Riviera in answer to a call from Robinson, an angles man whom Steiger knew in America. After a slyly presented cat-and-mouse dialogue, Robinson makes it clear he wants Steiger to go in with him on the robbery. Steiger, who feels the venture is unnecessarily risky, reluctantly agrees, and from this point on the film is concerned with detailed preparations for the crime, all of which are interesting and suspenseful. Meanwhile, romance is developing between Steiger and Miss Collins, a nightclub dancer who is one of the seven thieves.

The plot, which is older than Cary Grant (and better when he's in it), is given fresh life by the high quality of the performances and direction in this film. Detective-story fans and other logicians may not be prepared to accept

BID ON A PLATYS

Fish Auctions Scheduled. Hobbyists or potentialists who would like to add to their collections of Sail Fin Mollies or fighting Siamese may do so this Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon at a Fish Auction to be held at Noah's Ark Pet Shop, 229 Nassau Street.

Fish Auctions are not common around these parts, although we have heard once who would bid two Red Tuxedo Swords for a box of Kissling Gourami and half a pair of the food. Noah's Ark has planned the event for the rear of the shop. You inspect the fish through plastic bags and after you have bid high, you go around to the front of the shop and collect your fish from the tank.

FOR ANTIQUARIES

At the Sign of The Leopard's Head, English and American silver are the specialties of the house at the antique shop on Chambers Street called The Leopard's Head. Because American silver is not easy to find, this makes the new shop a new kind of specialists' specialty shop.

In addition to the tongs which might have been made in 18th century Princeton (see box), The Leopard's Head has other examples of fine early American silver craftsmanship, like the "can" (we called it a "tankard," and so will you) made by Nathaniel Coleman, the Quaker from Burlington. It is simple, gleaming and functional and looks as though it would hold a good pint.

Joseph and Nathaniel Richardson, Philadelphia silversmiths, are represented by a pair of the substantial sugar tongs used by tea-drinkers of early America. One of the most beautiful pieces in the shop is Van Voorhees' small ladle designed in a simple, clean, limpid curve. (It is engraved with a "G", in case you'd like to give "G" a memorable present.)

The new shop in which all these silver pieces are displayed, is a bright spot, with citron yellow walls and a magnificent blue Chinese Oriental rug on the floor. Spotlights mounted in the ceiling provide the only light and serve to heighten the glow on silver tea-kettles, old clocks, walnut tables and Georgian candlesticks.

Silver is not the only coin of the realm here, but we'll polish off the silver before we go on to china and textiles. The shop is very proud to have a set of four matched silver candlesticks made by John Caffe in London, in 1745. It's most unusual to find a quartet; usually candlesticks are in pairs, like the pair made in the same year by another silversmith: Peter Taylor.

Made in Princeton?

One of the treasures at The Leopard's Head on Chambers Street is a pair of five-inch silver sugar tongs made by Daniel Van Voorhees, 18th century American silversmith.

Like Revere, Van Voorhees was a patriot in the Continental case, as well as an artisan, and as a reward for his patriotic zeal, he was given the post of silversmith to the Continental Congress. His appointment coincided with the period during which the Congress was meeting in Princeton and it is quite possible that Van Voorhees made the little tongs right here, if not actually on Chambers Street, at least not far away.

They are finely wrought tongs, with an open work design on each shaft. Van Voorhees also made a pair of tongs at a later date when he had moved to New York and these are also for sale at The Leopard's Head.

Another special treasure is a set of Georgian rat-tail flatware: pistol knives, forks, table and dessert spoons and demi-tasse spoons. We liked the elaborately engraved silver tea kettle with its spirit lamp. You can pick it up, lamp and all, or loosen the proper hook and free the kettle for pouring.

Well — to leave silver behind for a moment, let's look at two early 19th century coverlets, woven by itinerant weavers who used to stop at farm-houses to weave the linen for a hope chest. These coverlets are primary shades of blue and red woven on natural line. One has the date: "1836", the name of the weaver and the name of his client.

Several interesting old volumes — an anatomy written in 1682, a "revised" edition of Hopley's card games printed in 1826 and a dozen old medical books are part of The Leopard's Head stock. There's a fascinating mantle clock made by James Smith, a clock-maker to George III, and a pair of myrtle-blue Chinese rose-petal jars with pierced teak tops which sit the fragrance held inside.

Against one wall of the shop is a small oval drop-leaf table made in 18th century New Jersey of walnut, and fashioned with plain, straight tapering legs.

We think you'll enjoy this shop: Mrs. Harold J. Schuster, the owner, has a tremendous store of knowledge about any antique object, whether it's a Georgian snuffe, an allegorical painting from the reign of James I. or an 11th century Chinese jug. She can pinpoint the year, the craftsman and the materials used with an accuracy and plenitude of detail which make her as interesting to listen to as her shop is to visit.

A Load of Bread, Jug of Wine, Self-service is the order of things at the Princeton Junction Package Store just over the bridge on the Princeton-Hightstown Road in Princeton Junction.

You pick up a little market-basket, just as though you were in a super-market, and you wander around, picking up a fifth of bourbon here, a bottle of sherry there and some potato chips on the way out, just for the children.

The shop has been newly designed with the help of Ever Ready Refrigeration in Trenton. Merchandise has been arranged on the shelves of "islands" so that you can browse at ease, examining both sides of everything.

You'll be particularly happy about the big, open refrigerator bin that holds 50 cases of cold beer — over 25 different brands. You poke around the cartons as you would explore the frozen food in a market. In the big standard refrigerator at the back of the store, there are 450 cases of beer, so don't worry about your demands exhausting the supply.

New Of The Theatres

all the developments, but the mixture of suspense and humor here is a diverting one. The film is in CinemaScope.

The Last Voyage (March 23-26) is a Titanic battle between Andrew Stone, who wrote, produced and directed it, and the lie de France, here disguised as the S. S. Clairton. We are not among those who get misty-eyed at the thought of old ships, but it does seem to us that there is something immoral and blasphemous in Stone's gleeful and virtually total destruction of the former queen of the seas. Stone rented the ship, which was about to be junked, and turned it into a sort of floating Eniwetok. His marionettes are Robert Stack, Dorothy Malone, George Sanders and Edmond O'Brien, and they should all be ashamed of themselves.

For the first couple of reels, Stone hawks us into believing that this is a story about the doomed ship's captain (Sanders) and his struggle with the elements, but before the midpoint of the picture is reached it is apparent that the only thing this story is about is the dismembering of the lie de France. Unless you happened to see "Sink the Bismarck!" the Playhouse's welcoming gesture to Chancellor Adenauer last week, you would never believe so many disasters could befall one ship. It is exploded, burned, bombed, battered and finally abandoned.

Miss Malone's acting repertoire is necessarily limited, since she spends most of the film wedged under a fallen beam, but her husband (Stack) expresses himself by chasing around for a torch for about an hour. When the ship is finally sunk, its dying rattles faithfully recorded by cameras all over the place, you will have the feeling that some awesome crime has been committed. There's no question who the guilty party is: he's over there in a lifeboat yelling "Cut!" The film is in color and wide screen.

THE GARDEN

No Escape (March 22-26), a sordid little number in French with English titles, stars Raf Vallone, Mopali Noel, Charles Vanel and Betty Schneider, Charles Brabant directed.

In an old refinery town, Vanel is a boarding-house landlord who has designs on Miss Noel, the attractive widow of his dead son. She, however, is bored to death with the house and with him, and the maid (Miss Schneider) adds a forbidding touch by openly hating everyone and everything. In to this Gallic fairytale comes Vallone, an escaped criminal traveling incognito. He and Miss Noel start an affair which is promptly reported to Vanel by Miss Schneider, who has learned Vanel's true identity. To protect her lover, Miss Noel agrees to romance with Vanel, and meanwhile plots to escape with Vallone by convincing Vanel she and Vallone are dead. If you've followed the plot so far, you'll probably enjoy the film. As in many foreign dramas, the acting is unrelentingly serious and intense.

Blackboard Jungle (March 28), despite the lurid publicity it has received in the few years since its release, is a first-rate film, a gripping if sometimes over-dramatized account of schoolyard delinquency. The cast, featuring Glenn Ford, Sidney Poitier, Vic Morrow, Anne Francis and Richard Kiley, is impressive.

Ford is an idealistic young man just out of teachers college who goes into the depths of darkest Manhattan with a belief that there are no bad boys. In his first few days at school he is assaulted verbally and physically by members of his class, captained by a heroin-charged bad boy (Morrow). His ideals are further shattered when one of the kiddies tries to rape a good-looking female teacher (Margaret Hayes) in the library, and others among his charges start sending scurrilous, anonymous letters to his expectant wife (Miss Francis). One of the most shattering scenes, at least to this jazz buff, occurs when Kiley, a serious fellow teacher, brings a collection of irreplaceable jazz records to class on the theory that music had charms. The discs are methodically destroyed by the youngsters. This is the movie that launched the career of Sidney Poitier, who plays a good-humored, intelligent Negro youth who disapproves of the delinquency but doesn't want to become an informer. The best line in the film comes when Ford, after a classroom knife fight, finally seems to have mattered the situation, but plans to quit anyway. "You can't leave now, Teach," Poitier tells him. "It would take us too long to break in a new man." Recommended.

Sinners of Paris (March 28-April 2). The advance publicity for this French (with English titles) mystery promised it would be "cruel, sexy, brutal" and would include "Parish thugs and their French Mols. Undraped chorines in PARIS BISTROS, the Gendarme dragnet and Paris SEX in the RAW!"—so naturally we were anxious to see it. It is, we found, no more than another French mystery, and the "DESPERATE MEN and FRIGHTENED WOMEN" so tantalizingly promised are neither more nor less desperate and frightened than those in last week's French mystery. It is true, however, that none of the chorines wear drapes. Charles Vanel and Bela Darvi are the stars, and Pierre Chenal directed. The story hinges around the release from prison of Le Fondu, a notorious killer. Le Fondu has sworn vengeance on the police officer who sent him away. The police officer's friends are worried. The police officer says he is not worried. Le Fondu kills the police officer. Le Nicolas, a procurer nephew of Le Fondu, agrees to spy on his uncle for the police. Le Fondu kills Le Nicolas. Despondent police officers begin having affairs with each other's wives. People dance in PARIS BISTROS. After a while, the police kill Le Fondu.

IN SEARCH OF SPRING: Two Princeton High School students take a cheerful view of the kind of "spring" weather that calls for winter coats, mufflers and hoods instead of flowery bonnets. Rae Chafey (left) prepares to go out into the spring cold with Jill Fremont.

New Teachers Listed. The six new teachers include three for Princeton High School and three elementary teachers. All six appointments are effective as of September 1.

Joining the English Department of the high school will be Matthew A. Clark and Michael Maddock. Mr. Clark, who has had three years of teaching experience, was graduated from Lawrenceville School and William and Mary College and received his master's degree from Penn State University.

Mr. Maddock, currently on the staff of Moorestown High School, has had 13 years teaching experience. He received his master's degree from Penn State University and has also studied at Temple University, Rutgers, and the University of Pennsylvania.

Gilbert H. Mortenson will become a mathematics teacher at the high school. Now serving as a Lt. j.g. in the Navy, Mr. Mortenson is a graduate of Brown University, where he majored in mathematics.

His wife, Mrs. Ruth M. Mortenson, is one of the three new elementary teachers. A graduate of Rhode Island College of Education, she will teach sixth grade at the Witherspoon School. The other two elementary teachers are Miss Barbara E. Dill, a senior at Trenton State Teachers College, who will become a fourth grade teacher at Nassau Street School, and Miss Ellen G. Olson, a senior at Allegheny College, who will have an elementary class at Nassau Street School.

In other action, the Board of Education denied a request from a Lawrence Township resident for permission to send a student to Princeton High School upon payment of tuition. This was a reaffirmation of the board's previously adopted rule refusing all private-tuition students.

TAXI LICENSE FEES UP?

Borough May Raise Rates, Too. After hearing from four taxi operators at Tuesday night's meeting, Borough Council delayed final action on an ordinance to raise taxi license fees from $25 to $40 a year. The delay will give the finance committee time to meet with the taxi owners to consider a possible rate increase. Opposing the fee increase were Robert O'Neill, 19 Green Street; Joseph E. Nutt, 50 Murray Place; Samuel Sculerati, 108 Linden

Lane; and Thomas Moore, 19 Green Street. Councilman Richard Lester, chairman of the finance committee, explained that the fee increase was proposed because of the increasing costs of Borough government and in light of the fact that the fee had been constant for about 12 years, with many other municipalities now charging considerably more.

Mr. Lester's committee will meet with the taxi drivers Friday to consider possible rate increases, and the Council will again consider the ordinance to raise the fees on Monday night. An increase in the present 50-cent fare would require another ordinance and public hearing.

The Council passed another ordinance to increase fees, this one for liquor licenses, after no one appeared to speak at the public hearing. The fees were raised the maximum permissible under state law, 20 per cent a year, to bring them to $40 for consumption licenses, $50 for distribution licenses, and $120 for club licenses. Mr. Lester noted that Council had hoped to raise them even higher, but state law requires increases in two or three-yearly steps.

In other action, the Council tabled an ordinance for the appointment of assessors for the Hamilton Avenue sidewalk after Salvatore La Placa registered complaint. —Continued on Page 10

PLEASE TOUCH
you'll love it!

It seems that people who haven't been in our shop for two or three weeks are always amazed to see the new displays of merchandise we have set up since their last visit. This week, they will see some cute, cuddly stuffed fur animals pecking out from under our floral displays.

For example, we have a glamorous kitten's exuding personality from under her straw bonnet and sun glasses. And then, there is the "graduate cat" complete with mortarboard and horn-rimmed glasses. Both these items are $3. All in all, we have a very congenial group of pink poodles, tigers, lambs and skunks. If you like pets at all, you won't be able to resist stroking these angora fur animals.

Why the stuffed toy bit in a flower shop? Well, my original brainstorm was to tie corages around their necks as a novelty presentation. They move so well on their own merits, however, that we now stock them regularly.

Take a look at these fine toys when you come in for one of our dollar weekend specials. In addition to our glads and pompons, we will also have two other specials for $1.

If your spirits are lagging and you want to give yourself a lift, try to make it to our shop this weekend. We have a fountain in the window and all in all, our car can easily plan to spend an hour looking around. Remember — there is always a flower show at Allen's.

"TRAINING DAY" NET
For Princeton Volunteers. A "Training Day" program for volunteer workers will be held Monday from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Princeton YM-YWCA, Avalon Place. The program is jointly sponsored by the YWCA League of Women Voters and American Association of University Women of Princeton.

Registration will be at 9:30, with a keynote talk at 10 by Mrs. Homer van Beuren, president of the Barnard College Alumnae Association. A group of five technique training roundtables will follow at 10:30 and lunch will be served at 12:30. Guest speaker at the luncheon will be Mrs. Robert B. Meyner, wife of the Governor, who will talk on "Women, Politics and Their Community."

Topics and leaders of the training roundtables will be: "Being an Effective Chairman," Mrs. Harold Spout, Mrs. Kenneth Maxwell and Mrs. Leslie L. Vivian, Jr.; "Handling Organization Money," Mrs. Elmar Anderson; "Public Relations and Publicity," John J. Cristofalo and Jean Lilly, Mrs. Sherman Bates; "Human Resources," Mrs. Nathan Lower, Mrs. Edward Schulz, Mrs. Stanley C. Green, Mrs. Carl H. Spontrom, Mrs. Richard Pearson; "Discussion and Techniques," Mrs. Bernard M. Green.

Mrs. Lynn B. Mann, president of the Princeton AAUW, is chairman of the day. Others on the program committee are Mrs. Edward Gryzbek of the LWV and Mrs. Elizabeth Sargent of the YWCA. A nursery will be open from 9:30 to 12:30. Fees will be as follows: registration and luncheon, $1; registration only, 50 cents; nursery, 30 cents. Registration will be limited to 200 persons. Reservations, which must be in by this Friday, March 25, may be made by calling the YWCA at WA 4-4825.

HAGADORN DEMOTED

For Unbecoming Conduct. Police Sergeant Joseph D. Hagadorn of 51 Chestnut Street has been demoted from sergeant to patrolman for conduct unbecoming an officer. The demotion was the result of a decision reached last Wednesday by Mayor Raymond Male, Chief of Police Raymond Mondore and the Borough Police Committee following lengthy hearings on the charge.

Mr. Hagadorn had been under suspension for hitting a parked car on Nassau Street on March 3 and leaving the scene of the accident. For this infraction, he had been found guilty and fined $30 by Magistrate Michael Traversa of Hopewell Township sitting in Borough Court. The accident occurred less than 24 hours after Mr. Hagadorn had been promoted to the rank of sergeant.

LOKES DRIVER'S LICENSE

In Traffic Court. Mrs. Josephine Townsend, 59, of Crescent Avenue

near Rocky Hill, had her driver's license revoked for two years and was fined $200 and $25 court costs for drunken driving by Magistrate Theodore T. Tams in traffic court. In other violations, Wallace D. Hays, 42, of 51 Clover Lane was fined $20 for failing to keep to the right and $15 for driving with an overdue inspection sticker. Also paying two fines were Jules Josephson, 36, of 15 Jefferson Road and Thomas D. William, 26, of Stockton Street. Mr. Josephson was fined $22 for speeding and $10 for driving without a license; Mr.

William paid $15 for having no license and another $15 for driving an unregistered vehicle.

For driving without headlights, Anthony Stefanel Jr., 20, of Lawrenceville Road was fined $15. Twelve dollar fines were levied against Mrs. Louise G. Anderson, 40, of 113 Dempsey Lane for a red light violation and Ochran Davis, 55, of 61 Prospect Avenue for a one-way street infraction.

Easter Parade Attacked.

To the Editor of Town Topics: The announcement of the Lions Club that they propose sponsoring an Easter Parade on Nassau Street following the church services with prizes to be given for "Best dressed couple," "Best dressed little boy," etc. is so shocking it is hard to imagine that Princeton will tolerate so cheap a commercialization of the day commemorating the Resurrection of

Other letters to Mailbox are on Page 20.

Jesus—an event of preeminent historic magnitude and deep personal significance.

If this proposal is in imitation of the Fifth Avenue Parade (whatever one's estimate of that traditional display may be), some striking differences between it and the trumped-up Fashion Show for Princeton may be pointed out.

Because of traffic problems, people do walk more in New York on Sundays and every day than in less congested places. This situation removes some of the artificiality that a planned promenade here would have. Also the Fifth Avenue Parade is not the highly regulated, self-conscious demonstration with prizes offered competing participants that is announced for here.

Is the object of this offensive proposal for celebrating Easter to stimulate trade? We believe other and more effective ways of selling good merchandise can be devised and that the tone of Princeton and a day of supreme religious meaning may thereby be preserved.

For INAUGURAL SET

For Dr. McCord, Dr. James I. McCord will be formally installed as President of Princeton Theological Seminary in ceremonies to be held next Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the Princeton University Chapel.

A series of inaugural events built around the theme, "The Seminary and Its Mission," will precede the afternoon inaugural. At 9 a.m. in the Seminary's Miller Chapel, there will be a service of worship led by the Rev. Arthur L. Miller, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church.

At 10:30 a.m., a panel under Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, will consider "The Seminary and the Church's Mission." Panel members will be Dr. Glenn W. Moore, Dr. John C. Smith, Dr. Kenneth G. Neigh and Dr. William A. Morrison.

There will be a luncheon for guests, students and faculty at 12 noon and following the luncheon, Dr. H. Richard Niebuhr will speak on "The Seminary in the Ecumenical Age."

A pre-inaugural dinner will be held on Monday night at the Princeton Inn. Dr. Robert Goheen, president of Princeton University, and Dr. Howard Lowry, president of the College of Wooster, will speak.

THREE LOSE LICENSES

Under Point System, Three Princeton drivers have had their licenses suspended under the point system by the Division of Motor Vehicles.

Theodore Phillips, 30, of Carter Road, lost his license for three months, beginning March 1. Carl G. Lindbloom, 31, of 182 Snowden Lane, had his license suspended for two months, beginning March 2. February 22 was the effective date for a two-month revocation imposed on Wayne J. Bradcock, 26, New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute, Skillman.

FINED, SENTENCED

For Disorderly Conduct. In a special Township Court session on Saturday, Herman L. Broadway, 28, of 72 Birch Avenue was sentenced to the Mercer County jail for five days for assault and battery against Corriea Gillette. Magistrate James Hill also fined Broadway $25 and 35 court costs.

The sentence came as the result of an argument on Friday between Broadway and Miss Gillette. According to Township police, Miss Gillette was beaten so severely that she was taken to Princeton Hospital by the First Aid Unit for treatment.

MASTER PLAN TOPIC

In Montgomery Township a preliminary meeting on the Master Plan for Montgomery Township will be held next Thursday, March 31, at 8 p.m. at the new Montgomery Township School, corner of Orchard and Burnt Hill Roads. This will be followed by a public hearing on Wednesday, April 13, also at the school.

At the hearing, members of the Planning Board will present the major features of the Master Plan and explain its significance to the development of Montgomery Township. Questions will be answered by members of the board and by representatives of their consultant, the Government Consulting Service of the Polis Institute of Local and State Government of the University of Pennsylvania.

All those interested in Montgomery Township are invited to attend both the meeting and the hearing. An outline of the Master Plan, including a map showing suggestions for future land use, is currently being distributed. Those who would like more detailed information prior to the meetings may borrow a full copy of the plan for a limited time from the Township Clerk, Mrs. Beatrice S. Skillman, upon payment of a $2 deposit. Copies may also be purchased, at $2 each.

Carroll D. Smith is chairman of the Planning Board. Members are John W. Kalpin, Township mayor; Norton C. Jefferson, building inspector and zoning officer; Arthur Kirk, vice mayor; Augustus R. Coddington, Willis V. Herder, Joseph W. Hoffman, William Kirk and Gilbert I. Runyon. Mr. Skillman is also secretary to the board.

Expect Princeton Overflow. Main objective of the Master Plan is listed as retention of the present low density, rural-agricultural character of Montgomery Township. In this connection, it is pointed out that Montgomery is bordered on the south by Princeton Township and it is suggested that, since many Montgomery residents already work in Princeton, and since Princeton Township is growing so rapidly, by 1975 Montgomery can look forward to receiving families unable to find living space in Princeton Township.

Specific zoning regulations are suggested to prevent overcrowding as a result of increased population, which is expected to be caused not only by those moving up from Princeton but also by those moving out from New York and North Jersey. The Belle Mead-Harlingen area is recommended as the best one for development of an "urban core," and as the location for a new school expected to be needed by 1970 and for a new municipal building.

The southern part of Montgomery Township, on the Princeton Township border, is suggested as the best location for establishment of a new district for research and development activities. "Princeton has special attractions for such uses," the plan states, "and Montgomery is close enough to enjoy some of Princeton's advantages." It is added that very low density should be required in this district in order to minimize any possible conflict with residential use in the area.

Other suggestions in the Master Plan include improvements of highway connections, such as the relocation of Route 206 to by-pass the Belle Mead bridge, special zoning regulations to protect the growth of Princeton Airport; con-

On Your Mark, Get Set . . .

Go! It's as popular in Japan as Mah Jong used to be in the United States, or as chess is in Russia. It's the ancient Oriental board game called Go, and it has become so popular in this country that there are now enough players to stock a few tournaments.

As a matter of fact, there will be a tournament in Princeton this Saturday and anybody who is interested in Go, or who is interested in becoming interested, is invited to attend. The event is the final session in the first annual (hopefully) New Jersey State Open Go Tournament. The first rounds were played on March 5 at the Bell Telephone Laboratories in Murray Hill.

Princeton Go's will be rooting for Dr. Ralph Fox of the University's mathematics department who is tied for first place with a New Yorker, both are undefeated in three games played, none lost.

Play will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday at Fine Hall on the University campus and will continue throughout the day.

Go is played on a square board which is 18 inches across. "Stones" (black stones for one player, white stones for his opponent) are placed on the intersections of the lines not in the squares. The object is to make a fence, or a series of fences which enclose more of the board than your opponent's fences do. Go players believe that their game is deeper and more fascinating than chess.

Dr. Fox has been a Go player since 1933. His proficiency is such that he has been awarded a Degree from the Japanese Go Association. These Degrees are conferred on amateurs by Japanese professionals who base their judgment on games played between amateurs and the Japanese pros. Dr. Fox was one of the first Occidentals to receive a Degree.

About 40 Gos from New York and New Jersey are expected at Fine Hall on Saturday.

Goings!

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Edward McConnell, 122 West Broad Street, Hopewell, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McAvetta, 77 Fishkill Place, both on March 16; and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hellander, 12 Hedge Road, Franklin Park, March 17.

Sons were also born to Mr. and Mrs. John Murray, Lawrenceville Road, Lawrenceville; Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Smith, 75 Crestview Drive; and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Childers, 405 Beaver Avenue, all on March 18; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hanna, Dutch Neck Road, Hightstown; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schneider, 53 Jefferson Road; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCord, 205 Moore Street, all on March 19.

Parents of girls included Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Thompson, 14 Symmes Court, Cranbury; and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel T. Boone, 7 Sturgis Road, Franklin Park, all on March 15; and Mr. and Mrs. James Rosenberg, 386 North Harrison Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Basil Stelson, Drexler Corner Road, both on March 16.

APPLICATIONS OPEN

For Nursery School, The Nassau Co-operative Nursery School is now accepting admission applications for the year 1960-61 for three and four-year-old boys and girls. Blankets may be obtained from Mrs. Raymond F. Male, 76 Cedar Lane, WA 4-2286. Applications will close April 15.

The school, which meets currently at the Jewish Center on Nassau Street, is inter-racial and non-sectarian. Tuition is low in order to make the school available to as many children as possible. Mrs. Thomas Caldwell and Mrs. Egon Leobner are the teachers.

COMMITTEEMAN TO SPEAK To Women Voters' Study Group.

Township Committeeman John Mount will speak at a meeting of the League of Women Voters Community Planning Study Group to be held Monday at 8:15 at the home of Mrs. Edwin K. Gatchell, chairman of the group.

Township Committee representative on the Planning Board, Mr. Mount will discuss the Township Master Plan. In May, the Study Group will give its report to the entire membership of the League at the regular meetings.

FASHION SHOW FRIDAY

At Lawrenceville Fire House, The Ladies Auxiliary of the Lawrenceville Company will hold a fashion show Friday evening at 8 in the Firehouse on Phillips Avenue.

There will be a $1 donation for adults and 15 cents for children under 12. Included in the event will be door prizes, refreshments and entertainment by the Jarvie Brothers. Tickets may be obtained from any auxiliary member or at the door.

WIN CERTIFICATES

In Spelling Test, Ida Boccanfuso, Edna Higgins, and Linda Winkoff, students at Princeton High School, will be awarded certificates for spelling correctly 100 words in an official test, Miss Myrtle Henry, head of the Business Education Department, has announced.

TOP DOGS WIN

In Training Club's Graduation, Eight dogs won Beginners and Intermediate citations at the March graduations exercises held by the Princeton Dog Training Club. The graduation was held in the gymnasium at Miss Fine's School.

In the Beginners' Class, the winners were Peter Sparhawk and Labrador Retriever, 404 Butler Avenue; Mrs. John Boyer and Pug, 2 Pardee Road; Mrs. Max Pemberton and Dachshund, 317 W. Lucas Road; and Miss Marion De Voe, New Brunswick, with Sheltie.

Intermediate winners were Richard Suedeker of Cranbury, with mixed breed; Miss Sally Campbell, 33 Battle Road, miniature poodle; John Hoyt, 14 Knoll Drive, boxer; and Mrs. W. S. Agar, Mr. Lucas Row, mixed breed.

SPRING DANCE ENJOYED

By 8th Graders. More than 100 eighth graders attended a Spring Dance held by the eighth grade of the Witherspoon School in the school gymnasium. Rick Hurford's "Swinging Shepherds" provided the music for the occasion which had St. Patrick's Day as its theme.

The dance was made possible through the efforts of the Borough Elementary Schools PTA, Mrs. John Fischer, PTA president, and Mrs. Frank Tomacka, chairman of the PTA dance committee.

HOW TO TEACH CERAMICS

Workshops Planned. As part of its in-service training program for fine arts and industrial arts teachers, the Princeton High School Industrial Arts Department will sponsor a two-day Ceramic Workshop next Wednesday and Thursday from 4 to 6 and from 7 to 9 p.m.

There will be demonstrations of wheel throwing, hand methods of pottery making, glazing, decorating and other ceramic techniques. Teachers will model and decorate clay after watching the demonstrations.

The workshop has been planned by J. Alfred Seitz and Richard H. Wood, industrial arts teachers at the high school. Princeton teachers who will attend in addition to Mr. Seitz and Mr. Wood, are Frank Birch, Wilbur Goyette, Samuel McDowd, Fred Siebels and Donald Thiel.

SIX MIKE FIVE MILES

In Scout Event. Six Tenderfoot Scouts of Troop 77 completed a five-mile hike Saturday as part of their advancement toward Second Class Scouts. They travelled a route along Stony Brook and cooked their lunch at the water tower near Mount Pleasant. Those who made the hike were Steven Bussard, Robert Console, Theodore Gates, Gregory Staats, John Wheeler and Paul Wirzig. Thomas Phillips, assistant Scoutmaster, led the hike.

THISTLE LODGE TO MEET

Will Honor Chief Daughters. Thistle Lodge 229, Daughters of Scotia, will honor its past chief daughters this Friday in the Odd Fellows Hall, 22½ Witherspoon Street. Mrs. William Toole, past chief daughter, will preside. Mrs. Jean Nunn, grand deputy and past chief daughter of Lady Cameron Lodge 58, of Montclair, will be present. Mrs. Charles Cook, past chief daughter, and her committee, are in charge of refreshments.

FIRM SCHEDULED

For Senior Girl Scouts. A film on the Girl Scout Round-Up, held in Colorado Springs last July, will be shown next Wednesday at 3:30 and 8 in Trinity Church parish house. Prospective and present senior scouts and their parents are invited. The film title is "A Mile High — A World Wide." It is suggested that younger intermediate scouts attend the 3:30 showing, and older scouts the 8 o'clock presentation. At the latter meeting, senior scouting information will be given, as well as plans for counselor-in-training courses and the 1962 Round-Up.

LOVE IS JUST AS IMPORTANT: Mrs. E. Frederick Laschever, flanked by Eric (left) and David, two of her four sons, feels that in the process of placing a child for adoption it is just as important to find a loving home as it is to find one in which the parents are the equal of the child in intelligence. For her's and other opinions on the role intelligence should play in adoption, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: In the recent, highly-publicized "Combs Case," the State Board of Child Welfare sought to prevent a couple from adopting a mentally-gifted four-year old girl whom they had raised almost since birth by saying they would be unable to offer her enough intellectual stimulation. How important is it, in your opinion, that the intelligence of a couple who wish to adopt a child be equal, or superior, to that of the child's?

Where asked: Around town.

Mrs. E. Frederick Laschever, 30 Scott Lane, housewife; Fox legal basis there must be some definite rules governing adoption—there must be some standard of evaluating adoption procedures. But, as a mother of four myself, I can't help feeling that finding a loving home is equally as important as finding an intellectual one.

Oscar May, 43 Clay Street, custodian at ETS: In my opinion, I wouldn't say it is absolutely imperative that the parents be as intelligent as the child although it would help. I'm inclined to believe, from what I've read, that the character of the parents is the most important thing. I don't think a disparity in intelligence between child and parent would be a deterrent to the child's continued intelligence.

Frederick Goeke, Jr., Quaker Bridge Road, plumber: I believe if a child had a superior mind, it would progress under any circumstances and that the question of whether or not the parents are as intelligent as the child is immaterial.

Mrs. Thomas Scott, Hawthorne Road, Franklin Park, housewife: I think intelligence is important but I don't think a couple should be prohibited from adopting a child solely on that basis. As long as they provide a good home for the child and do the best they can with what intelligence they have, that should be sufficient.

Mrs. John F. Brinster, 27 Mercer Road, housewife: If the intelligence of a child could be accurately predicted at an early age, then I feel it certainly should be placed with parents who have the same capabilities. But, it is my understanding that it is extremely difficult to measure a child's intelligence with any degree of accuracy in his first years of development and certainly not as an infant.

Clarence Howard, 173 Witherspoon Street, interior decorator: I don't believe that it is essential that the parents be intelligent. I feel just as that governor did who said that the fact that his mother only went to fourth grade certainly had no effect on his mental growth and development. I think it is a mistake both to the child and to the parents to take a child away on that basis. There have been a number of famous men whose parents couldn't even read or write.

Mrs. Mercedes Rodgers, Griggstown, housewife: When it comes to adoption, it is possible to choose parents for the child who have suitable backgrounds. I would be in favor of selecting parents who are equal or superior in intelligence to that of the child they wish to adopt. It's difficult enough just being born and if you can have your chances stacked for you in your favor, so much the better.

John Rhoads, Berkeley Avenue, Trenton, architect: I don't think it should be of any important at all. I feel the intelligence of the parents shouldn't have any effect on the mental development of a child whether it is their own or adopted.

Mrs. John C. Blumenthal, Brunswick Pike, housewife: If I were placing a child for adoption, I certainly would take intelligence into consideration along with other factors. I don't think intelligence is all that disreputable. It isn't a crime against human nature to be intelligent. But I wouldn't remove an adopted child from the bosom of a family anymore than I would remove a natural child.

Mrs. Michael Driver, 225 Halsey Street, assistant in the Department of Art and Archaeology of Princeton University: Can the I.Q. of a very young infant be ascertained at the time of adoption?
If it were possible, I would be in favor of having a superior child given to equally gifted parents.

William J. Watt, 44 Harrison Street, retired civil service worker: My opinion is that if they put a child up for adoption it should be for better or worse. If they subsequently find out that a child has an exceptional I.Q. and the parents don't, the adoption agency shouldn't be allowed to have any second thoughts or take the child away. I really don't think the I.Q. of the parents would have any effect on the mental growth of a child. That is the province of the schools isn't it?

Mrs. Gilbert Dunklin, 28 N.
Stanworth Drive, housewife: I feel that love and affection of a child mean more than an equality in
I.Q.s. I see no reason why a child should not develop mentally even if it is ahead of its parents. In fact, I don't think parents could prevent a superior child from developing his mind.

Lynn Hally and Eileen Hutton entertained the Romans with a dance and Katherine Layton and Thomas Tucker did pantomimes. Virginia Van Kirk was program chairman.

Invitations from a committee headed by Carol Van Doren were in the form of a scroll. Martha Craig did the decorations and Robert Stathmar, Club Consul, acted as toastmaster. Special guests were Miss Florence Burke, Miss Ruth Steiner and Mrs. Alan W. Richards, head of the Latin department. Mrs. Sigurd Peterson is sponsor of the Latin Club.

On April 2, members of the club will travel to Montclair to join other Latin clubs for the annual state convention of the New Jersey Junior Classical League.

RED CROSS ON JOB HERE

Minutian Local Programs, The Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross, which is currently conducting its annual campaign for membership and donations, maintains regular programs here all year round. Donations to the present drive for $43,500 support these local programs as well as helping in National and International Red Cross work, such as aid to victims in the recent earthquake in Agadir, Morocco, and to families marooned this month in the snowbound areas of North Carolina and Kentucky.

Local activities include the Blood Donor Program, which supplies free blood for patients in Princeton Hospital, and the Gray Ladies, who work at the Neuro-Psychiatric Institute. The Motor Service provides needed transportation, taking a child afflicted with cerebral palsy to Trenton for treatment, for instance, or taking a polio victim to the clinic in New Brunswick.

General chairman of the Princeton campaign is Jerald S. Hanks. More than 800 volunteers are currently canvassing their neighborhoods for donations to the drive, while local businessmen are being canvassed by members of the business division, under the chairmanship of Harry A. Farr 2nd.

Mrs. Farr is head of the Farr Hardware Co. and has long been active in civic affairs in Princeton. "All of us need to work for the success of the Red Cross campaign," he said. "It is imperative that the Red Cross be able to continue its vital services in the Princeton area as well as in every other part of the world. Continued on Page 17

James Mc Donald, Lakeview Avenue, Kingston, policeman: It's been my experience in my travels that there are many families where both parents have low I.Q.s and yet they'll have very intelligent children. To my mind it would be just as wrong to forbid a child to be adopted on the basis of intelligence as it would to take a natural born child with a high I.Q. away from his parents who may not be as gifted.

Mrs. Mabel Reeve, 120 John Street, Director of Family Service Agency of Princeton: Intelligence should be taken into consideration at the time of the adoption, of course, but if there is a choice between warm and loving parents who can give a child security and parents of intelligence who don't possess these qualities, then I would prefer the former.

Edward Sayre, Livingston, mechanical engineer: I really don't think it matters an awful lot. After all, a child doesn't have a choice as to the amount of intelligence his parents have. I don't think it should be a criteria for adoption at all. Seems to me, the criteria ought to be the desire to want the child and the ability and willingness to take care of it.

Mrs. Phoebe Wang, 95 Mason Drive, case worker: It would be desirable to match the intelligence of the child with that of the parents at the time of adoption but it would be wrong to take a child away (once it has been placed) from a home in which it has found love and security. Also if a child is placed in a home whose parents have a high I.Q.s but no love and kindness, then the child may develop emotional problems and fail to expand his abilities to the fullest. Nor is it true that a child's I.Q. always remain on the same level.

Topics Of The Town

In order to insure this, we must make every effort to see that the campaign goal is reached."

PARTY GIRL

An Entertaining Teen-Ager. Nothing is more likely to send a mother into shock than the prospect of entertaining 15 eight-year-olds for a couple of hours at a birthday party. Or ten four-year-olds. Or six six-year-olds. Or that matter. Age and number are irrelevant; the prospect is the underlying thing.

A quiet, well-mannered eighth-grader named Stephanie Judson has begun to carve a career for herself as a mother's helper at these birthday parties. More than that, she will practically run the whole party, leaving mother free for more important jobs like frosting the cake and defrosting the ice-cream.

Using as her principal weapon an accordion which is full of very loud chords, Stephanie prods the children into games—some old ones, some new ones which she has invented or adapted herself.

"Pin the Face on Teacher" is one of her favorites. The boys and girls draw big faces of Teacher with crayons and then cut them out. "It" is blindfolded and proceeds after the manner of "Pin the Tail on the Donkey."

Sticking pins in Teacher is such fun that the party may get to the brink of chaos. It is here that the accordion comes in. With a few bright chords, Stephanie brings the group to silence—more or less—and then, in her soft voice, asks them to sit around her and choose a song to sing.

"Squeeze Box," by Ear. Stephanie plays by ear and she can produce anything the children ask for: "Little White Duck," "She'll Be Comin' Round the Mountain," "Mary Had a Little Lamb," and so on. She also plays the recorder sometimes, but a recorder is not quite assertive enough for a large group of children, she has found. It's fun to play the accordion," Stephanie says, "because children are so fascinated by it. They love to watch me squeeze and play."

The accordion and the recorder (or the piano, if one is available) lead to musical games like "Musical Chairs" or "Musical Rug." If you're caught on the scalar seat as the march goes 'round the room, you're OUT! or to a spirited parade into the refreshment table.

And if the children are unruly? "When they seem to be getting well, you know, sort of wild, I just say, 'Come on and help me set this up, will you?' Then I ask them to help me distribute the crayons so we can draw pictures, or something, and it always seems to work."

Stephanie is 13-years old. A student at Miss Fine's, she has helped out at the University Chapel Nursery School and has done quite a bit of baby-sitting for her sisters.

Her fee is about $3 a party, "depending." She may be reached at WA 4-5899.

POSTMASTER EXAM SET

For Lawrenceville. Applications for postmaster of Lawrenceville will be accepted until Tuesday, April 12. It has been announced by the U.S. Civil Service Commission. The position carries a salary of $5,853 a year.

Applicants must have lived within the Lawrenceville delivery area for at least a year and must have at least two years experience showing that they can manage the postal business efficiently supervise employees. They must be over 18 and under 70.

All applicants will be required to take a written test and those who pass will be assigned final ratings on the basis of the test, their experience, and their fitness for the position. Applications and further information may be obtained at the Lawrenceville Post Office.

MORGAN NAMED OFFICER

Of Marquand Park Foundation. Arthur P. Morgan of 18 Hibben Road, a vice president of the Empire Trust Company, Princeton, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the Marquand Park Foundation. He succeeds the late Oliver Spaulding.

Other officers and directors of the foundation are: Mrs. Frederic A. Stibbald, president; Edmund S. DeLong, vice president; Mrs. Douglas Delaney, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Harold K. Hochschild and Richard W. Colman.

Reservations are now being accepted for use of Marquand Park during the Spring and Summer. They should be made through Mrs. Anna Halpern, secretary, Borough Engineer's Office, 102 Witherspoon Street.

Reservations may include use of the baseball diamond and picnic area facilities. Among those using the park last year were various church and school groups, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and the YMCA Midget Baseball League.

Marquand Park, which is located at the corner of Stockton Street and Lovers Lane, was a gift to Princeton Borough. The Marquand Park Foundation is a tax-deductible organization created to assist the Borough in planting and improving the park. No regular fund appeals are made. (Continued on Page 18)

Look How Our Baby's Grown!

It's just one year—March 24, 1959—since the West Windsor branch of The Thorne Pharmacy opened its doors at Princeton Junction. Thanks to YOU, it's been a wonderful year!

Your loyalty and steady patronage . . . your appreciation of what we have tried to do . . . your helpful suggestions as to how we can best serve you have all made this a wonderful 12 months in our new location! Just a part of the proof of how we've grown is the fact that we now need two registered pharmacists to fill your prescription needs.

Our heartfelt thanks for all you have done!

but anyone wishing to aid in the work is asked to send contributions to the Marquand Park Foundation in care of the Princeton Bank & Trust Co.

READERS REPORT

On Aiding the Blind. Mutual admiration seems to be the common experience of both reader and student as they benefit by the work of Recording for the Blind, the national organization of which the Princeton unit is one of the busiest. It is apparent in talking with the volunteers who record the books and the blind students who hear them that this is very much a two-way affair.

A Princeton chemist, a valuable reader in the physical sciences, "never fails to learn something," and is grateful that he even had the opportunity to read part of Einstein. And from a blind student, "I cannot really estimate the value your records have been. I have spent hundreds of hours listening to books recorded for me."

It is the communication with an individual which appeals to most readers when they shut themselves into the recording booth, suspend the microphone around their neck, set the timer and open a book which a student must have to continue his academic work.

The Princeton Unit has some 200 readers able to handle college material, general and technical, who meet the requirement for a clear, accurate and interesting voice. On a typical day at the office at 100 Stockton Street, all four booths are almost constantly in use. Readers' approach to the job vary.

"Spiritual Income" Realized William Furmin, an insurance executive, keeps an early morning date to read a text on the Stock Market which happens to be "home-work for him in a business course. But beyond this practical advantage Mr. Furmin derives "spiritual income" from a worthwhile use of extra time. Princeton rates first nationally in "quality of readers," and second only to New York in quantity of production among all 14 units across the country. After little more than a year of operation under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ralph Rotnem, the unit has recorded 81 books, those requested by students, supplementary reading books for the national library and a special program for younger students for the state of Connecticut.

Books are received from the organization's headquarters, recorded on tape and sent back to New York for embossing on discs. Ultimately, one copy is deposited at the Princeton Public Library for circulation here.

Many volumes are accompanied by a brief biographical note about the student requesting them: teachers, graduate students, professional people. A Texas student expressed his thanks for nearly 50 books in two years which enabled him to carry on his studies. There is no charge to students and all funds for the Princeton office are contributed locally.

Concentration Is Vital. Every book represents the combined work of volunteer office staff and readers. Mrs. Charles Caldwell, who fills both categories, says

If love makes the world go round—the telephone dial just helps it spin faster. Bringing people together in person, in seconds, at low cost—is what makes the phone worth so much. Think how much a phone call means to you—when all you want in the world is to hear that one special voice.

NEW JERSEY BELL

Report from THE MAYOR

A Special Meeting. There will be a special meeting of Borough Council on Monday at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. The session—fourth for the Council during the month of March—is called for a hearing on charges of an alleged violation of alcoholic beverage control regulations by one of the local licensees.

In a particularly busy month for Council and its committees, the meeting schedule had already been set for the four-hour session on March 8, the meeting of March 12 for adoption of a resolution on public housing sites, and the meeting on Tuesday of this week with three hearings on finance committee matters.

The Acting Mayor. The special hearing on Monday will find Councilman Richard A. Lester presiding as "Acting Mayor." On Sunday, the Mayor will go to Washington, D.C. as a delegate to the White House Conference on Children and Youth.

Under Title 40 of the New Jersey Revised Statutes, the Mayor must notify the President of the Council whenever he intends to leave Princeton for more than 72 hours. The council president then becomes acting mayor during the absence of the mayor.

In this instance, the mayor will be absent about 80 hours, returning on Wednesday evening to fulfill previous commitments and to participate on Thursday evening with our planning board and members of Council in a demonstration at the David Sarnoff Laboratory. That program is designed to show how Princeton officials work with their planning consultant in reaching basic decisions affecting our town's future. The occasion is the spring meeting of the New Jersey Federation of Official Planning Boards in the central Jersey area.

Unheard-of. The visiting "planners" from other towns may not be aware of it, but the demonstration by the Princeton board will be unheard-of. We will not be dealing with artificial problems just to exhibit the exchange of views with our consultant, Dodd McElough. Our part in the meeting will be "for real."

The Alcohol Factor. Last Tuesday's statewide traffic safety conference was devoted to serious discussion of the alcohol factor in traffic accidents. Reporting an research carried on by the State of Maryland, a Johns Hopkins physical reported the increasing percentage of fatal accidents in which the victims—either drivers or pedestrians—had a high alcohol content in their blood stream.

The National Safety Council reports that 90 percent of all traffic accidents involve a drinking driver. In Middlesex County the Chief Medical Examiner, Dr. William C. Wilentz, has been studying this problem for 25 years. The doctor reports that the alcohol factor has been present in 90 percent of the autopsies made of traffic victims in that county.

Open House Schedule. The regular weekly "Tell it to the Mayor" sessions will be held on Thursday, March 24, and on Friday, April 1, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

Among last week's questions: How much of the 1960 borough budget is property tax revenue? Answer: The local tax (not school or county) for municipal purposes, including the reserve for uncollected taxes, is $136,509. This is 43 per cent of the $1,006,292 of revenues anticipated in the 1960 Borough budget.

that the reading "is hard work. If I don't concentrate on what I'm reading, the listener can't either."

A graduate student, John Driscoll, looks upon the work as a form of teaching. He plans verbal footnotes for the chemistry texts he reads, specially noting terms he himself had found difficult. He elates the difficulty encountered by readers who have trained themselves to scan a page of print having to resort to reading every word. A misread preposition can make a difference.

Businessmen, teachers, commuters among the Princeton readers work in the evening. There has even been a "swing shift" instituted which keeps the recording booths open from 9 in the morning to 10:30 at night.

Douglas MacNamee, one of the evening readers, explains this enthusiasm: "You can always be sure that the person you're reading to is listening very intently and eagerly. You can imagine the terrific concentration, as well as ability he must have, to have reached college. With such an attentive audience, you can't help but feel it's a privilege to be the person he's listening to."

SIGNALS TO BE TESTED

In CD Drill Saturday. One of the main objects of the statewide Civil Defense and Disaster Control exercise to be held this Saturday will be testing of the warning sirens used in the exercise. Everyone will be required to take shelter at the sound of the "Take Cover" signal at 10:30 a.m. The "All Clear" will follow at 10:45 a.m.

Past exercises have indicated that warning sirens are not always heard in all sections of the Princeton area. Those who do not hear the signal at 10:30 a.m., or who have difficulty hearing it, are asked to call the Disaster Control Center at Walnut 4-5958.

The signals are as follows:
1. The "Take Cover" signal is a long, steady blast on the siren of three minutes duration on the siren. This signal indicates that the disaster is imminent and all persons will proceed to assigned shelters.

2. The "All Clear" signal, to be sounded at 10:45 a.m., is a repeat of the "All Clear" signal—a steady three-minute blast on the sirens.

3. The "All Clear" signal, to be sounded at 10:45 a.m., is a repeat of the "All Clear" signal—a steady three-minute blast on the sirens.

wilcox's

This signal indicates that an danger has passed and normal routine may be followed.

Memorizing Signals Urged. The Princeton Joint Disaster Control Council urges that everyone memorize these signals so as not to confuse them with the fire alarm siren. The fire alarm is a wailing or fluctuating blast on the siren but it is only of one minute duration.

On the sounding of the "Take Cover" signal at 10:30 a.m. this Saturday, the Police and Reserve Police will direct traffic to halt and all people to seek shelter. It is a misdemeanor within the meaning of the State Disorderly Conduct code for persons not to comply with their instructions.

School Crossings Poorly Guarded To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

On Tuesday morning, March 1, while taking the children to school (at 8:20 a.m.) we were stopped for a red light at Nassau Street and Washington Road. A car with a Pennsylvania License plate came down Nassau Street and blithely went through the red light.

There were children walking, on their way to school, the school going on hand, but this made no difference to one careless driver. And it was not a yellow light just turning red. It was a red light. When the light turned green for us, he was too far on his way to report to the policeman on duty at Moore and Nassau Streets.

Twice since that date I have seen cars going through red lights on Nassau Street—one time at Nassau and Witherspoon Streets, and the most recent at Harrison Street and Nassau. In each instance they have been cars in a hurry to proceed up or down Nassau Street, and in each instance accidents have been prevented because of the alertness of oncoming traffic.

But where are our policemen? Surely no meter goes by without the owner's car being ticked. Are the meters more important than human life?

Is there a shortage of police officers to patrol these vital areas? If so, surely a tax increase is in order to supplement the size of the Police Department.

Over the past three years I have had occasion to drive past the Wiggins-Moore Street intersection, in taking children to and from school, and there have been several times when the officer had not yet reported to duty, or had left his post early (before 1 o'clock).

On Wednesday afternoon (March 16) there was no policeman on duty at Moore Street and Wiggins when the children arrived to cross at the afternoon dismissal time. Some waited for him to arrive, unfortunately others were in too great a hurry to reach home, and crossed without him.

Again on Thursday (March 17) the policeman had not arrived for the lunch time dismissal, and several small children had crossed by themselves, and proceeded on down Wiggins toward Witherspoon Street.

Human life, especially that of a young child, is very precious. Princeton has much to be proud of in its public school system, but isn't it time to also concern ourselves with the more practical aspects of life? The traffic accident rate during the past year leaves little to boast of.

Please let's have our policemen on duty at the school crossings when that is needed, and adequate traffic supervision at all times.

ELIZABETH TAMBLYN
(Mrs. Russell Tamblyn)
Mercer Street.

Help Negroes in South.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

Recently in the south there have been renewed clashes over the rights of negroes. Negro college students have attempted to obtain, in a peaceful, dignified manner, service on an equal basis with other customers at lunch counters in many southern cities, but have been repeatedly denied this right. Many of these students have been mistreated and imprisoned.

The Princeton Church Youth Council, representing the youth of the majority of religious organizations in Princeton, sympathizes with the southern negro students and supports them in their efforts to eliminate racial discrimination. This council itself is an interracial group. The denial of rights to students in other parts of the United States is a matter of concern to all of us.

We believe that one way this concern can be expressed is to help meet the need of these courageous students for funds to defend themselves in court. We ask everyone to join with us in this effort.

Please send all contributions to: Fred Miller, Princeton Church Youth Council Treasurer, 116 Wilson Road, Princeton. Checks may Rank Criminals by Ability.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The question raised concerning an Einstein and murder leads to an interesting conundrum.

Perhaps we should arrange a battery of tests for our rapists, kidnappers, etc. They could be placed in "ability groups" for trial purposes.

Let the punishment fit the IQ, so to speak.

JOHN J. MCKENNA JR.

Who Has the Right to Kill?

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

To read your March 10 Question of the Week on capital punishment was a disheartening experience. I have never understood the moral difference between those who kill for revenge and those who kill for gain or lust, etc. What is the difference between a community which kills for revenge and an individual who kills for revenge?

If we do not apply moral standards to the people acting as a whole through the state, then apparently the state can do anything: drop A-bombs indiscriminately on civilians, butcher Jews in concentration camps, etc. If we hold the actions of the state up to some moral standard, how can that standard be any different from the one which we apply to ourselves.

As for those proponents of capital punishment who do not favor the revenge theory, the bulk of them appear to feel that capital punishment can be justified by its deterrent aspect.

If capital punishment is supposed to deter homicide, why do we practice it so rarely in homicide cases (about one out of 20 times); even less with regard to crimes such as rape and kidnapping? Is our death penalty anything more than a random outburst of rage against occasional crimes, which are selected for this treatment with complete inconsistency?

(I leave with the consciences of TOWN TOPICS' readers the fact that about two out of every three persons executed in the United States is a Negro, although the percentage of capital crimes committed by Negroes is much less than that.)

Finally, how do the proponents of capital punishment feel about the undeniable fact that a certain number of those subjected to the death penalty have been innocent of the crimes for which they were executed? If the taking of an innocent life is not murder, I do not know what else we can call it.

to join the heading rush to flourish the public water supply.

We have been told that the American Medical Association, our public Health Department, and the dental association are for it. The AMA, etc., have made mistakes before. At any rate, we don't know how they arrived at their conclusions in this case.

Many people say a little bit of noxious substance in our water won't hurt us. There is also a little bit of "harmless" poison in much of our daily food. Recall the incident, not too long ago, in which a few deaths resulted when a large quantity of a nitrate preservative was put on fish fillets, "The Jockey In Your Dress," published by Simon and Schuster and written by an award-winning newspaper man who studied this subject for three years with the encouragement and assistance of medical research scholars, debunking the alleged harmlessness of eating small amounts of poison.

If we had positive proof that all tooth decay in children would be eliminated, perhaps fluoridation could be sanctioned, even though this would not benefit adults even minutely. There exists no conclusive proof that all decay will be eliminated. Proponents of fluoridation claim that tooth decay will be reduced, not eliminated.

It is wrong to force citizens to drink fluoridated water. It is true that a dissector can always buy uncontaminated bottled water, but I feel compelled to make this point and to emphasize the fact that we already have fallout poison, food additive poison, insecticide poison, and now water poison. I'm afraid our poor lives, kidneys, lungs, etc., will become so befuddled that they will stop trying to eliminate all these poisons from our bodies and just let them accumulate. This, of course, will shorten our lives and mutate our progeny.

Mr. A. and Mrs. M. O. Bill and Vera. They've brought their newest collection, to Mary Chapin, 217 Nassau, for your spring inspection.

Vera Maxwell has designed a set of interchangeable parts for your spring wardrobe. There's a team silk sleeveless dress printed with leaves in shades of grey. The skirt is a sheaf of fine pleats and above it is a surprise jacket-blouse which covers you up for town. Next, you buy a light grey flannel sheath jumper and you wear that silk print surprise jacket under it as a blouse. Over it goes a stub of a grey flannel jacket with squared-off collar and three-quarter sleeves.

Part three is a pale grey oatmeal skirt, straight and a pencil, and a matching collarless reversible coat whose reverse is the same grey flannel as the sheath-jumper and jacket mentioned above, so now you're back where we started. You can even wear all these things at once, properly.

She's done the same thing with a charcoal grey coat and straight skirt and a dress and surprise of rayon, striped with various greys.

Bill Adinsson calls his collection "Harbinger" and he combines blues, beige and violet green in a quiet, almost classic grouping. Green twill shorts and deeply pleated skirt go with green gingham sissy shirt and a collarless green twill coat whose yoke is lined with the gingham.

A color called "dogwood," which is a pale creamy beige, has been used for a denim bathing suit sashed with that green gingham. This color — "dogwood" — sprouts again in a straight skirt and a short dress belted with a lovely print of blue corn flowers. The comforter print has been used for a shirt and for a blazer lined throughout with the same print. The blues and purples in this print are as evocative of spring as anything we've seen in some time.

That leaf green pops up in a corduroy trenchcoat made to be worn in a spring shower. It has the gingham check for a lining. "Dogwood" makes a man's denim shirt with a big pocket.

Robins egg blue or dogwood form the background for a shirt print made up of bird drawings and little "balloons" in which various birds are described in old-fashioned printing. The style, however, is modern, and the print is used in a sleeveless dress which is anything but quaint.

Vera and Bill aside, you'll want to look at Mary Chapin's suede leather shirt, lined with orphee, presented in any of a dozen colors and priced at $19.95. Wear it tucked in or flapping in the breeze. It's an investment in chic.

CHAMBER HAS SECRETARY

Miss Miers Named, Miss Beatrice H. Miers, 121 Bayard Lane, has been appointed to the post of Executive Secretary of the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce, according to an announcement made this week by Ralph Mason, president, and John Williams, executive consultant.

Miss Miers has been with the Institute for International Social Research in Princeton as assistant to the director. She was a member of the organizing group of the Princeton Community Homemaker Service and served as secretary to the organization. She was assistant secretary of the Princeton United Community Fund from 1958 until this year.

MCANDREW APPOINTED

By Black, Little & Co. John F. McAndrew of 235 Edgerstone Road has been appointed vice president of Black, Little & Co., Inc., Newark advertising firm. He will be in charge of the agency's newly-expanded Princeton offices at 245 Nassau Street.

Mr. McAndrew was formerly assistant director of public services with McCann Erickson, Inc. He previously served as an executive with Cunningham and Walsh, Inc., and as general sales manager of Castleton China, Inc.

BOWERS WINS CONTRACT

To Build Research Center. The architectural firm of Fulmer and Bowers, 341 Nassau, has been chosen by Crucible Steel to design the company's new Technology Research Center in Pittsburgh. Scheduled for completion in 1961, it will cost about $3,000,000.

The program calls for construction of 125,000 square feet in a laboratory-office building and pilot shop located on a 30-acre site southwest of Pittsburgh. The Center will be used for metallurgical research with special emphasis on work with exotic metals for rocket propulsion.

In the Princeton area, Fulmer and Bowers has been responsible for architectural work on Littlebrook School, Opinion Research offices, Westminster Choir College dormitories, Columbian Carbon Company's research laboratory and the Tile Council of America Research Center.

DRAINE IN NEW LOCATION

At 10 Nassau, Charles H. Draine Company, Real Estate and Insurance office, has moved to new quarters in the building at 10 Nassau Street. The offices, which are opposite University Place, will house the company's expanded activities in the field of real estate.

Mr. Draine has announced the appointment of Guy Bensinger Jr., as sales manager of the firm's real estate division. Mr. Draine will continue his own activities in both the real estate and insurance fields.

SHEPHERD JOINS ORC

As Marketing Director. Appointment of John E. Shepherd to the new position of director of marketing at Opinion Research Corporation has been announced by Joseph C. Bevis, ORC chairman. Mr. Bevis said that Mr. Shepherd's appointment reflects a significant expansion of the company's marketing and market research services.

Mr. Shepherd's responsibilities will include development of long-range market strategy plans, industry-wide marketing studies, new product evaluation, studies of market potential, interpretation of sales decline and growth, retail outlet appraisal and distribution flow studies. He will also assess ORC studies in other areas in terms of their marketing implication.

Prior to joining ORC, Mr. Shepherd was senior vice president and director of marketing for the New York advertising agency of Fletcher Richards, Calkins & Holden. He was previously director of research for Esquire, Coronet and Apparel Arts. He is a director and former president of the New York chapter of the American Marketing Association. He lives in Chatham, N.J.

REALTOR TO RETIRE

Mrs. Norton to End Career. Mrs. Frances R. Norton, realtor, of Belle Mead has announced her retirement as of April 1.

The Vincent K. Flannery Real-estate firm will absorb her business and will add her staff of six realtors and sales representatives to its own. Mr. Flannery's office is located in the red building on State Highway 206 near the Belle Mead railroad station which Mrs. Norton first occupied when she entered the field ten years ago.

Mrs. Norton has concentrated on colonial homes, farms, estates and attractive older homes in the rural areas of Somerset, Mercer and Hunterdon counties. In recent years she has been considered a specialist in this line.

The announcement of her retirement came as her reason a desire to spend more leisure time with her husband, George W. Norton. Mr. Norton is also a realtor.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE

Of Bank Women's Association. Mrs. Elizabeth Van Scliver, trust officer of the First National Bank of Princeton, was among those attending the meeting of the North Atlantic Division of the National Association of Bank Women, held this Wednesday at the Hotel Delmonico, New York.

Chief topic of discussion at the meeting was the function of the Securities and Exchange Commission in connection with present-day monetary problems. Main speaker was Harold C. Patterson, SEC Commissioner.

RAJCHMAN WINS PRIZE

From RCA. Dr. Jan A. Rajchman, 248 Edgerstone Road, has been given the Morris Liebmann Memorial Prize of the Institute of Radio Engineers for his work on magnetic devices for information processing. The award is made each year to a member of the IRE for important contributions to radio.

An Associate Laboratory Director of RCA Laboratories, Dr. Rajchman joined RCA in 1935 as a research engineer. At present, he is head of a research group working on the development of ultra-high-speed computing techniques. The objective of the group is to develop computers which can operate a thousand times faster than those in use today.

Four other members of the RCA technical staff have recently been named Fellows of the IRE. They are Dr. Horvick Johnson, 84 Roper Road; Dr. Alfred H. Sommer, 72 Henry Avenue; Dr. Philip T. Smith, 426 Riverside Drive; and Dr. William M. Webster, Jr., 11 Morven Place.

NAMED CHIEF ENGINEER

Of RCA Division. Edward O. Johnson of 231 Snowden Lane has been appointed Chief Engineer of the RCA Semiconductor and Materials Division. Mr. Johnson had previously been Manager, Advanced Development, for the same division.

Born in Hartford, Conn., Mr. Johnson received a degree in electrical engineering from Pratt Institute and has taken graduate studies at Princeton University and the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology in Zurich. During World War II, while in the Navy, he developed a new type of test equipment for rapid flight deck tests of communications equipment in fighter planes.

Mr. Johnson, who has received two achievement awards at RCA, is a member of the American Physical Society and a senior member of the Institute of Radio Engineers. He is the author of 15 technical papers and, in addition, has had 12 patents issued in his name.

Two Join RCA Staff. Dr. Rolf B. Lochinger, a specialist in electrical engineering, and Dr. Jack Schwartz, a specialist in nuclear physics, have joined the research staff of RCA Laboratories.

Since 1958, Dr. Lochinger, a native of Switzerland, had been associated with the Advanced Electrical Engineering Department at the Swiss Federal Institute. A native of New York, Dr. Schwartz received his Ph.D. degree from Harvard in 1958 and had been a member of Brookhaven National Laboratories. In their new assignments at RCA, Dr. Lochinger will be associated with the Systems Research Laboratory and Dr. Schwartz with the Physical and Chemical Research Laboratory.

SEGOVIA PLAYS

In Final Series II Concert. It is extraordinary that an instrument as quiet and restrained as the classical guitar should command an audience of aficionados as large as the one that packed McCarter Theatre Monday night. Actually, of course, the audience had come not merely to hear a guitarist, but to hear Andres Segovia because Sr. Segovia is a prime example of the complete identification of the artist with his instrument.

The guitarist chose his program from the tremendous number of guitar works which he has transcribed for solo guitar and from the repertoire of music written for guitar. In the classic manner, he began with early compositions: a Guirria, Espagnoleta and Camarero by the 17th century composer Gaspar Sanz; a moving Pasacalle by de Vise followed by a Corrente; and three compositions by Fernando Sor. All of these were originally written for guitar.

In his second group, Segovia played his transcriptions of a Bach Prelude and Gavotte, an Andante and Minuet by Haydn and a Romanza and Canzonette by Mendelssohn.

Three of his final selections were originally composed for the instrument: Tansman's Mazurka, Castelnuovo's Tedesco's Tarantella and a Prelude and Study by Tarrrega. As a final selection, Sr. Segovia played his transcription of Isaac Albeniz' popular Sevilla.

Brought back somewhat reluctantly by prolonged applause, the guitarist played as encores a Study by the late Brazilian composer, Villa-Lobos, and a Dance by Turburo.

This elderly Spanish gentleman in his white tie and tails is remote indeed from the unbuttoned flamenco guitarists but nevertheless he can draw the warmest Spanish music from his instrument, as he demonstrated in his light-hearted playing of the Albeniz.

Contrast! Provided. In contrast, he is cool and sad in de Vise's Pasacalle and full of folksy bounce in the Haydn Minuet. His command over his guitar seemed most evident in the Bach Gavotte where his changes in timbre and color were especially noticeable. He produced a beautifully romantic tone in Sor's Andante and in the Mendelssohn Song.

When he wants to he can make his guitar sound like a harpsichord—a very ripe and mellow harpsichord, if there is such a thing. The broken chords in Tarrrega's Study might have come from a keyboard.

He plays his instrument so easily that one is almost unconscious of any movement at all. His right hand seems to be merely drumming on a table and his plump left fingers find their positions smoothly and without ostentation.

Perhaps the one missing element in Monday's concert was warmth. A member of the audience who had heard Segovia many times before said that the guitarist seemed unusually happy and at ease with his Princeton listeners. It seemed to another, however, that years of concentrating had made Segovia an automaton who had lost some of the spark of youth. In any case, he had enough spark to ignite the McCarter audience with his cool and civilized music.

VIENNA CHOIR TO SING

April 1 at McCarter. The world-famous Vienna Choir Boys will appear Friday, April 1, at 8:30 p.m. at McCarter Theatre. This is the choir's 16th tour of North America. The group's appearance here is under the auspices of the Celebrity Series, through arrangement with S. Hurok.

The choir was founded in 1498 by imperial decree of the Holy Roman Emperor Maximilian I, and was exclusively controlled by the Hapsburg Court until the fall of the Empire in 1918. Public concerts were initiated in 1920 and the choir made its first tour of the United States in 1932.

Tickets are now available at the University Store. Orchestra seats are $2.80, with balcony prices ranging from $2.80 to $2.30 and $1.60.

SESSIONS WORK FEATURED

In Symphony Program. The "Idyll of Theocritus" by Roger Sessions. Conant professor of music at Princeton University, will be featured in the program to be presented Monday evening, April 11, by the Princeton Symphony Orchestra. The concert, final one for the season, will be in McCarter Theatre.

Mr. Sessions will serve as guest conductor for the performance of his work, which is designed for soprano and orchestra. The difficult vocal part will be sung by Mrs. Janice Harsanyi, wife of the orchestra's director, Nicholas Harsanyi. "Idyll of Theocritus" was first performed in January, 1956, by the Louisville Symphony Orchestra, and was hailed by critics. This will be its first subsequent performance in the United States. The two other works on the program will be conducted by Mr. Harsanyi. They will be "Gymnopodies," by Erik Satie, and "Les Preludes," by Franz Liszt.

MUSICIANS TO PLAY

In Chamber Concert. Seven members of the Douglass College music faculty will play three rarely-heard compositions in recital on Sunday, April 2 at 8:30 p.m. at the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road and Route 206. They will play the Beethoven clarinet trio B flat, Opus 11; Hindemith's Sonata for French horn and piano and the Brahms violin trio in B flat, Opus 87. Tickets, at $1 each, are available at the University Store or at the church on the night of the concert.

CALENDAR SAYS SPRING

But Tigers Head South. Hopeful that states farther south will provide warm sunshine and not the rain for which they are often noted at this time of year, four Princeton athletic teams will use spring vacation to gain experience for league seasons scheduled to open in April.

Tiger outfits in baseball, lacrosse, tennis and track will travel below the Mason-Dixon Line next week. Before taking off for Maryland, Ferris Thomsen's lacrosse team will open the spring season here Saturday at 2 o'clock. The Philadelphia Lacrosse Club, composed of former college players in that area, will provide the opposition on Fox Field.

Thomsen hopes his entry can dominate the Ivy League again, a feat it has managed each year save the first (1966) since the circuit was organized. In the past decade, Princeton has lost only two games to Ivy opposition.

Familiar names on the 1966 roster include tailback Dan Sachs and hockey defenseman Tom Campbell; biggest loss is that of Johnny Floyd, who gave the Tigers a tremendous season last spring, while achieving all-American rating.

The first intercollegiate game sends the Orange and Black against Maryland at Camp Rouse, with John Hopkins, always a strong contender for national honors, here on April 9.

Army and Navy are other non-Ivy foes on the schedule. Ivy action begins in late April, with a steadily improving Tiger team banking on sophomore strength to retain its title. Cornell will be the biggest hurdle.

Ball Team Needs Pitching. With a pitching staff headed by a pair of holdovers who won only two games between them last season, the Princeton baseball team must find unexpected ability in this department before it can be considered a contender for Eastern League honors. The Tigers have won the title in the past seven years, and have not finished in first division since 1956.

A pair of lefthanders, Dave Douglas and Wally Phillips, will take over the top pitching assignments. Douglas was only 3-3 in 1969; Phillips, who saw little action, won his only decision. With Herrn Belz and Joe Burns ranking ahead of them last spring, they worked only infrequently and no doubt will benefit from steady use this year.

Jim Blair, starting end on the football team who devoted last spring to academic pursuits, has reported this season and will pitch, although he is also a possibility at first base. Little assistance on the mound is expected from last year's weak freshman aggregation, which won only four out of ten.

Elmer Naples, who came along fast to win the catching assignment in 1969, is a fixture there and is likely to top 300 at the plate after batting .290 as a sophomore. Jerry Sullivan, burly reserve center on the football team, will spell Naples if necessary.

Infield in Doubt. Having lost three of last year's four regulars in infield positions, the Tigers will come up with several new faces there. Carl Belz at first, Tommy Frost at short and Gene Locks at third all graduated.

End of an Era

Princeton's 101st baseball season will be the last played on University Field. The picturesque setting, in use for more than half a century, will undergo the initial steps of conversion for the expanded school of engineering later this year.

While the baseball diamond itself has remained virtually unchanged through the years, the stands have been replaced periodically. Two major fires, the first which destroyed the old covered stands in 1920, resulted in distinctly altered appearance of the field.

Next spring, the varsity will play on a diamond now under construction east of Falmers Stadium. The freshman baseball team will play on an adjacent field there this season.

first last season, will battle Bill MacMillan, who played short part of last season, for the first base. At second, will be Pete Crispo, a two-year veteran.

Hopes are that Walt Whitehouse, an Andover alumnus who stood out for the freshmen last spring, will become eligible in time to take over the big job of playing shortstop. He has been on academic probation since early February. Junior Jim Lane, a reserve last spring, is another possibility.

At third, Bob Myslik, a utility infielder in 1969, is the top choice to replace the departed Gene Locks. The southern trip will provide opportunity for various experiments in making final selections for the infield defense.

Army and Navy are other non-Ivy foes on the schedule. Ivy action begins in late April, with a steadily improving Tiger team banking on sophomore strength to retain its title. Cornell will be the biggest hurdle.

Ball Team Needs Pitching. With a pitching staff headed by a pair of holdovers who won only two games between them last season, the Princeton baseball team must find unexpected ability in this department before it can be considered a contender for Eastern League honors. The Tigers have won the title in the past seven years, and have not finished in first division since 1956.

A pair of lefthanders, Dave Douglas and Wally Phillips, will take over the top pitching assignments. Douglas was only 3-3 in 1969; Phillips, who saw little action, won his only decision. With Herrn Belz and Joe Burns ranking ahead of them last spring, they worked only infrequently and no doubt will benefit from steady use this year.

Jim Blair, starting end on the football team who devoted last spring to academic pursuits, has reported this season and will pitch, although he is also a possibility at first base. Little assist-

JOHNNY MCBRIDE
Tiger Hockey Captain

When a 19-year old sophomore scored ten goals and ten assists on a team that won only two of its 18 games, his performance drew no great amount of attention. He was merely one of a few promising players who had hopes of forgetting that dismal season as quickly as possible by markedly improving their won-loss record the following year.

By mid-February of 1959, it was apparent that John McBride was likely to break Princeton's all-time scoring record in hockey—an achievement made possible by improvement so steady and so subtle that it has rarely been matched on the part of a skater in Baker Rink. By the end of the season, he had set the mark—44 points representing 27 goals and 15 assists.

Good as it was, he surpassed that fine record this year, beating opposing goalies 23 times and adding 31 assists for a total of 54 points. The impression he left on the record books is likely to remain for some time.

McBride's variety career total of 118 points is also a Princeton record, topping that credited to Hank Rutheford, the only All-American ever to wear a Princeton uniform. The various totals he compiled also constitute one and three-year records for both goals and assists.

A producer of hockey-conscious Andover and winner of the top award in the sport there before he won the freshman prize and shared in the Blackwell Cup here, McBride's achievements are unusual for several reasons. He became a standout hockey player not through sheer ability alone but because he cared so much, because, in the words of Coach Norm Wood, "he was always making a terrific second and even a third effort."

Unlike Dick Kazmaier in football and Bud Hasselstad and Pete Campbell in basketball, McBride set no records.

as a member of a championship team, Princeton finished no better than fifth in the Ivy League in each of the last two seasons, but the Tiger captain still rewrote the record book amidst second-division surroundings. At the season's end, he was a unanimous choice on the list of players to make it the first Princetonian to make it in five years.

McBride hopes to make teaching and coaching a career, with some school sure to benefit hugely from his knowledge and the knowledge that players of his ability come along about once in a decade.

was Al Kaemmerlein, who collected 127 points despite the fact that injury and inelegibility cut his playing time to 12 of the Tigers' 24 games.

Pete Campbell's 501 points and 20.9 average paced the Princetonians. Captain Jim Brangan threw in 387 points for a 16.1 average, followed by captain-elect Don Swan with 234 points and a 12.3 average.

Kaemmerlein's 10.8 average, based on 127 points in a dozen games, was next. Mike Burton, who played in all but one contest this season, was credited with 111 points to rank as the fifth highest scorer but averaged only 4.8 per game.

RECORDS BROKEN

By Elaina Breidenburg. Two new state marks for the women's 100-yard backstroke were set Saturday in less than an hour by Elaina Breidenburg. The Princeton girl was participating in the AAU-sanctioned swimming meet in the YM-YWCA pool at Avalon.

Bless Breidenburg's qualifying time in the event was 1:15.4, breaking the mark of 1:16.2 set two years ago by Barbara Freis of the North Jersey Swimming Association. Minutes later in the finals, she was clocked in 1:14.3, clipping almost a full second off the time she had set earlier in the meet.

A Princeton quartet took third place in the 200-yard freestyle relay. Representing the Princeton YWCA in the event were Bruce Houghton, Don Carey, Rick Harford and Bill Howe. The meet attracted 224 entries from nine New Jersey swimming clubs.

ST. PAUL'S EDGED

By Sacred Heart, 22-21. Scoring only two points in the last quarter, St. Paul's dropped a contest to Sacred Heart of South Amboy, 22-21, in the final 60 seconds after having led throughout the game. It was the Cavaliers' third loss against ten wins.

St. Paul's jumped to a 6-0 lead and was ahead by four at the —Continued on Page 28 open the season next week, with three contests scheduled in North Carolina before the stopover in Washington to play Georgetown. The home opener is set for Tuesday, April 5, against Villanova, with the first Eastern League action set for April 13 against Columbia at New York. Dartmouth will be the first league opponent at University Field — on April 23.

OTHER SPORTS

Two Track Meets Set. A meet against Virginia Polytech on Wednesday and another against the University of Virginia the following day will open the season next week for the track team. The first home event in the sport is set for April 23 against Rutgers. John Conroy will take his tennis team all the way to Florida for a series of informal matches, while the golfers are hopeful that Springdale's course will dry in time for a few practice rounds before they go to Maryland on April 2. Ice on Carnegie in March after it had been on open water in February set Dutch School's crew back, although it has been able to move over to the canal during the past ten days. The first race is set for April 22 against Navy at Annapolis.

BRANLEY NAMED

To Captain Swimmers. George A. Brakley 3d, son of the University's vice-president emeritus, has been named captain of the Princeton swimming team for 1960-61. Holder of the Tigers' records in the 220 and 440-yard freestyle events, he has won 30 victories during his two-year varsity career and has been beaten only nine times.

In other season-end news, varsity basketball statistics showed that four players averaged in double figures for the championship campaign just concluded. Surprisingly, the fourth highest scorer

News Of The CHURCHES

TRINITY CALLS RECTOR

The Rev. Robert Spears Named. The Rev. Robert R. Spears, Jr., vicar of the Church of the Intercession of Trinity Parish in New York City, has been called as new rector of Trinity Episcopal Church. He will succeed the Rev. Dr. John V. Butler, who left last month.

The Rev. Mr. Spears was the unanimous choice of the Parish Committee and the Vestry of Trinity Church. The time of his arrival in Princeton is uncertain, as he is now confined to St. Luke's Hospital, New York, with a back ailment.

Vicar at the chapel of the Intercession since 1955, the Rev. Mr. Spears previously served for four years as rector of St. Peter's Church, Auburn, N. Y. He was a Canon of St. Paul's Cathedral, Buffalo, N. Y., from 1950 and rector of St. Paul's Church, Mayville, N. Y., from 1944 to 1948.

After going to the Mayville church, the Rev. Mr. Spears was curate of St. Stephen's Church, Olean, N. Y. He was graduated from Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y., in 1940, and from General Theological Seminary, New York, in 1942. He is married and has three children.

REFUGEE SERVICE SET

At Calvary Baptist. World Refugee Year will be observed at Calvary Baptist Church at a special service this Sunday at 7:30 p.m. The service is open to the entire Princeton community.

Speakers will be the Rev. Matthew Glutts of New York, who has helped to settle hundreds of refugee families. He will describe his work and show a film on the subject entitled "The Exposure."

BULLETIN NOTES

The Women's League of Griggstown Reformed Church will sponsor a roast beef dinner this Saturday, March 5, to 8 p.m. Tickets will be $2 for adults, $1 for children under 12.

The Rev. Wilfred Habruck of the Board of National Missions of the United Presbyterian Church will direct the Building Fund campaign of the Community Presbyterian Church of the Sand Hills, Kendall Park. The preparatory phase of the campaign will begin this Sunday, with an intensive drive planned for May 16 to 21.

A benefit tea will be held Sunday from 4 to 6 p.m. at Witherspoon Presbyterian Church by the Ladies Aid Society. A program of African songs and movies will be presented at 4 p.m. by the Rev. Moses Sepulchra of Westminster College.

The Rev. Yancey L. Sims, pastor of Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church, and Albert Hinds, a member of the congregation, will be the church's delegates to the combined New Jersey and New Jersey Conferences, to be held next Wednesday, March 30, at 8 p.m. at Mt. Zion A.M.E. Church, Trenton.

New church secretary at Princeton Methodist Church is Mrs. W. Eugene Armstrong. She will take over her new position in April.

Trinity Couples Club will hold its April dessert and coffee meeting on Tuesday, April 5, at 8:15 p.m. at the Parish House. Chief project will be the decoration of Easter eggs, which will be sold afterwards. Those interested in placing egg orders at $1.50 per dozen, should call Mr. Harold E. Crane, Jr., at WA 1-6203.

end of the half. Led by the scoring of Bill Barkley, high man for both teams with eight points, and by the all-round play of "B" Joe Luhman, it appeared as if the Cavaliers were going to upset the Tri-County Comets. However, two foul shots and a basket in the last minute of play by its opponents sealed the victory away from the St. Paul five.

St. Paul's will end its season on its home floor Saturday at 7 against Saint George of Trenton.

BOWLING NOTES

Mixed League Has 4-Way Tie. A four-way tie developed in the Mixed League last week with the Wheeler, Rose, Sculerati and Henderson teams all sharing first place with 14 points. In the "A" league, Shelton Motors (43) replaced the Rockies (40) in the top spot with Farr Hardware and the Farmer at 36 points. Machine Development (46) wrested first place back from Physics (45) in the hard-fought Faculty League.

In other bowling action, last week's leaders held their position, but other teams began closing in. Tiger Bus (66) held a one-point edge over Nassau Del in the Women's League; Decker's was in front of Cicelli (39) by one game in the Women's Industrial League; and Tiger Garage led Nassau Service by three games in the Industrial League. Shelton Motors (30) continued to pace the "B" League, but Maul Electric was in front of Cicelli (39) by one game back, and the eighth place team was only four games behind.

Top individual score for the week was 214 by Bill Dumble in the Industrial loop. Other high games included Andy Drummond (138); Bill Kiefer, 232-20; Fred Lehner; 222; Joe Perpetua, 218; Gerald Rooney, 217; and Pros Aeschbacher, 214, in the Industrial League; and Al Hubbard, 212, and Jerry Plank, 211, in the "A" loop.

Larry Golden led the "B" League with 210-237-170, followed by Don Snyder, 237; Bob Cicelli, 228; Dick Perns, 214-200; Bill and Claude Pine, 213 each; Vince Gregg, 211; and Joe Baldino, 210-200. Pat Golden rolled 210 in the Mixed League where Sara Ross also had 193-175 and Betty Kleiber, 180-176. Betty Harris shot 210-207 in the Women's League, followed by Millie Tran, 197; Elizabeth Brown, 184; and Helen Love, 184. Eleanor Perrine had 180 in the Women's Industrial loop.

IT'S TERMITE TIME!

 "Flyin' Ants" are a sign termites may be attacking your home. Call today for a free inspection by a University Graduate Entomologist to determine if any damage is being done and if protective treatment is necessary. Our methods are based on sound engineering and wood preserving principles and for that reason treatments given by us are capable of giving more permanent protection. The work is thorough, effective and guaranteed dry-rot or fungus. Princeton Manor

"Building Your Own Home?"

The Princeton Manor Construction Co. will build from your ideas, your architect's plans, or from over 200 designs in our files — on your lot or our land. Consult our list of building sites in the Princeton area. You may use your lot as all or part of the down payment on your new home. Locally owned and managed, the Princeton Manor Construction Co. is currently building twenty to twenty-five quality homes a year. A few of our extra services are unusually favorable financing and free consultation with an interior decorator.

Visit our display Home open every day except Wednesday from noon 'til dusk

From the center of Princeton go east on Nassau St. for 1 mile, turn left on Snowden Lane to Franklin Ave., left 1 block and right on Grover Ave. to 136 Randall Rd. and Display Home.
